HOW BREAKFAST CLUB CAME TO LIFE

The Breakfast Club concept originated in Brooklyn, NY, after the COVID lockdown. Ben Dietz, a longtime executive in brand and commercial strategies, aimed to foster face-to-face connections. It began with weekly breakfasts at Le Crocodile in The Wythe Hotel and has since expanded to over 30 cities worldwide, with meet ups held on a weekly, bi-weekly, or monthly basis.

THE BREAKFAST CLUB ETHOS

Breakfast Club isn't so much about coffee at any time of the day. At times, we make it about breakfast, then happy hour, then a 'fun pizza stroll'—whatever that is—and then finding yourselves at a rock show with your new buddies.

The point is that real-life interactions can lead to something serendipitous and unexpected, whatever that might be. Your Breakfast Club serves it to you, or if it doesn't, you can serve IT to your Breakfast Club. Either way, we all win.

Everyone's invited - especially you.

- Feel free to share and bring friends, colleagues, family, and anyone you feel would benefit from early morning coffee, chat and networking.
- No agenda, no required buy-in, no need to RSVP. And no pitches.
- Everyone pays their own way.
- Everyone is welcome to subscribe.

HOSTS GUIDELINES

It's not Breakfast Club if it's not a recurring thing. So, schedule it as often as you can commit to showing up.

Partners or co-hosts help.

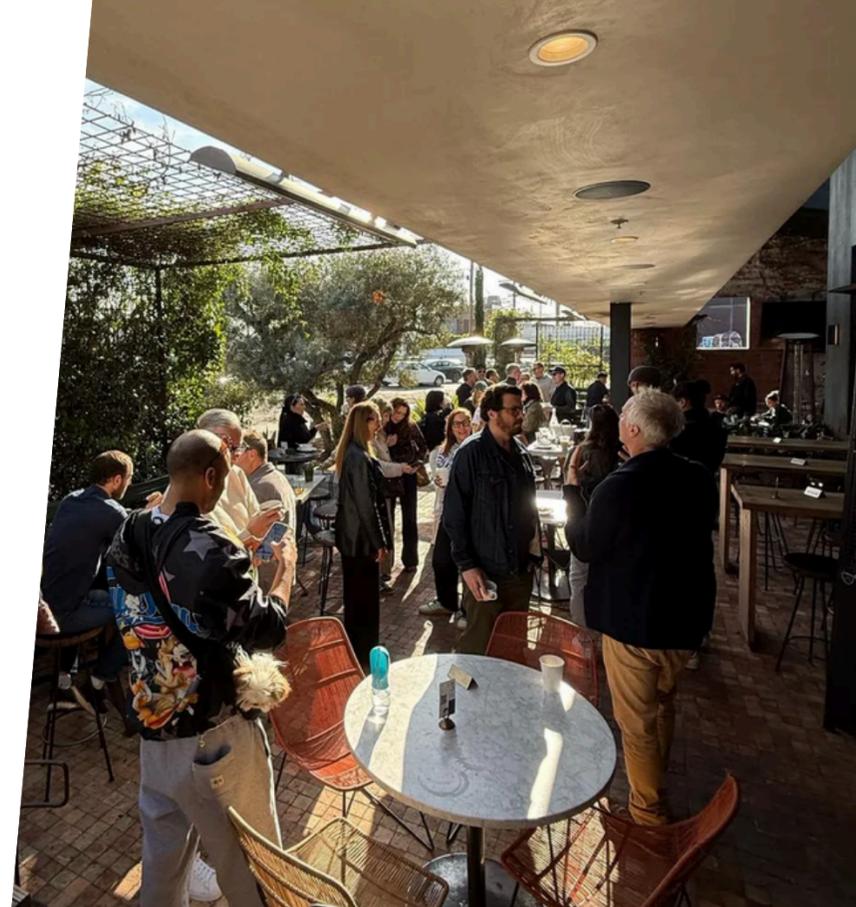

Pick a venue to call home and create a relationship with it.

Let people find their rhythms. Let them introduce themselves to each other. Don't make them talk if they don't want to. If they arrive late or need to excuse themselves early, it's fine.

Let everyone pay for themselves. It means they'll show up without preconceptions. If another party wants to underwrite, as our friends at "On Discourse" or "Mojo Supermarket" have done in the past, let them - but let them know they're doing it for the community, not the opportunity to run the table. They'll get it - or you don't want them there.

Invites work well to communicate the event and are easily shareable on Social media (LinkedIn, Global Substack Page, Global Instagram account, and via Text or WhatsApp). However, they are not mandatory.

Where to communicate your BC? Most hosts create LinkedIn posts and have created WhatsApp groups or dedicated email lists. However you feel the best way to connect with your community is up to you.

POST-EVENT RECAP

Ben creates a weekly written and visual recap, including photos, of all the BC events worldwide and shares them on Substack. This is a collaborative effort, and we encourage you to share your LinkedIn recap as well. Be sure to tag the community members who attended, as this will help boost your posts in an algorithm-friendly way. Additionally, please share your LinkedIn post in the Global WhatsApp group. Capturing the key points discussed during the events is an important part of the host's role. Find some friendly faces to assist in capturing the main topics around the room or table.

Example of a post-event recap:

- In our cozy group of 5 in Barcelona today, we discussed if life is game/simulation, and books on gaming theory; if you believe you live one life, how do you live the most inside of it (do you learn how other people live theirs, do you say yes to everything); what's success, really; YouTube as a powerful (and hard) tool; OpenAI's new image creation; Spanish well-intended but loophole-ridden laws; and a upcoming music platform mixing from Spotify's former CIO.
- Great seeing everyone and thanks for coming out in the rain/snow mix - Happy Spring? And thanks to our friends at Salt Yard for the great coffee, breakfast and perfect gathering space. As usual, so many topics covered including Cooper Flagg, summer concert line ups, the sea salt caramel latte that did not disappoint, knitting, hitting all 50 states with kids, BC Spotify playlist development, bbq in Austin, TX, Americorps and more.

GUIDELINES FOR SHARING INVITES & RECAPS

When to Share Invites: Send invites for the upcoming week at least one week in advance, regardless of whether your creative remains the same or varies each time.

Where to Share Invites: Share them with the Breakfast Club Hosts (Global) WhatsApp group, tagging @dietznutz and @charlacaponi to notify us so we can disseminate them across our social channels.

Who to Tag: If you post on your personal Instagram, tag @breakfast_clubbing for collaboration, and do the same for any recap images of your group.

Where & When to Share Recap Posts: Write your LinkedIn recap immediately following your BC. Tag @dietznutz on LinkedIn and share your LinkedIn post in the Global WhatsApp group.

INVITE & PHOTO RECAP SIZING FOR INSTAGRAM FEED, STORIES & LINKEDIN

If you choose to create an invite for your local BC, we only need two sizes to be made.

FEED:

Square: 1080 x 1080 pixels (1:1 aspect ratio)

STORY:

Vertical: 1080 x 1920 pixels (9:16 aspect ratio)

Recap photos of your BC will be shared on the Global Instagram page. They must follow the sizing or they won't be posted.

LINKEDIN
